

ABSTRACT

A method and system for generating rating notification to a user in a communications system, wherein a tariff structure is traversed, and during the traversing, one or more notification requests are detected for intermediate conditions. One or more notifications resulting from the one or more notification requests are sent to the user.